DIOCESE OF VENICE IN FLORIDA
OFFICE OF THE BISHOP

---

October 25, 2008

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

As you are all aware, next week our country will conduct its political elections and in so doing, choose its public officials. Many of you have spoken and written to me on this matter, sometimes requesting that I endorse a political party or candidate: that is something I cannot do.

However, as Bishop, it is my responsibility to instruct the faithful regarding the Church's teaching on moral issues, the most important being the right to life and dignity of every person, from conception till natural death. These issues are fundamental to the health of any society and should therefore, be carefully considered when voting for a particular candidate. After all, in voting we are making moral choices.

The Second Vatican Council has taught that the laity are not to relinquish their participation in 'public life', but instead fulfill their proper task of infusing the temporal order with Christian values. This teaching would apply for instance, to the act of voting for a political candidate or public official, which I encourage you to do.

In assisting you in properly forming your conscience before voting, I would recommend that you consult with the Catechism of the Catholic Church and the Compendium of the Social Doctrine of the Church. These two works highlight the Church's teaching on our moral responsibility to promote the common good.

As Catholics, we are called upon to respect and protect the rights of all, especially, the unborn child, the weakest and most vulnerable among us. At the same time, the family, the basic unit of society, must be safeguarded, promoted, and protected based on monogamous marriage between a man and a woman.

In affirming these rights of natural law, it is often argued that Catholics are promoting their own "personal values" which do not apply to other citizens. This accusation is false inasmuch as rights, such as the right to life and dignity of every person are common to all people, regardless of their personal belief. These fundamental rights cannot be denied by any individual or group as they are intrinsic God-given rights which we must affirm, and above all, protect.

As you discern your choices of public officials, be assured of my prayers for you and your families.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

+
+ Frank J. Dewane
Bishop of Venice in Florida

Scott's Corner

After a one week hiatus from writing my column, I am back in action reflecting and trying to digest all of the information I was exposed to while attending the International Catholic Stewardship Conference with Fr. Bob in Chicago.

One exciting development from the conference which we plan to implement as soon as possible is a new online giving module. As you are aware, parishioners may currently login to our website and make a contribution via credit card. Unfortunately, the process is arduous and requires the parishioner to enter their personal information every time a transaction takes place. What we are going to implement is very thrilling. Here are the details. The parish database which we use to monitor contributions, attendance and sacraments is operated through a software program called LOGOS. LOGOS now offers an integrated online giving module. It will work in the following way. Every parishioner will be able to login to our website where they will see a link to the LOGOS database. Upon clicking the link, they will be prompted for a username and password. After this information is entered, they will be directed to the LOGOS database. You will then have the option of performing a plethora of different functions. Most importantly, we would like every parishioner to create an account as you will be able to do much more than contribute. You will be able to edit data such as personal information, provide your email address, view upcoming events and of course make a contribution. The contribution option allows you to setup recurring credit card transactions or automated drafts from your bank account. In addition, you will be able to view your giving for any date range you choose. No longer will you be surprised when you receive your year end statement. Now you will be able to verify every contribution that has been entered in our database. You may also register for religious education and pay the fee directly from our database. The most exciting function of this module is the addition of a field for your email address. By providing us with your email address, we will be able to send out important information by group notifying our parishioners of upcoming pertinent events. Ultimately, this can develop into an outstanding communications tool as our parishioners will never be "out of the loop." I will continually update you on the progress of the implementation of this new module.

They were many very informative sessions at the International Catholic Stewardship Conference. One which I found particularly interesting was entitled "communications, beyond the parish bulletin." The purpose of including Scott's Corner in the bulletin is strictly to enhance communication. Some of the statistics from this presentation were startling at best. Here at St. Agnes, our only legitimate communications tool is the parish bulletin. Of course we have a website, however it is not an "in your face" tangible vehicle for communication. The presenter indicated that if we would like for our parishioners to read a particular piece of information in our parish bulletin, we would have to run the advertisement for four consecutive weeks in order for everyone to see it, and even then, it would have to "stand out" from the rest of the body of the bulletin. The statistics show that on average, only 25% of the registered Catholic parishioners nationwide will attend Mass on any given Sunday. I truly believe that the percentages here at St. Agnes are somewhat higher; however I was aghast at the dismal stats included in his power point presentation.

My hope is that as we integrate the new LOGOS module spoken of previously, we can make great strides in creating better communication. Let's face it; barring an announcement by the pastor, our communication conduits are extremely limited. As we better communicate we may better evangelize and welcome those that are not currently involved in ministry into the fold. There were several parishes participating in the stewardship conference that had upwards of 85% Mass participation and ministry participation. Think about that! 85% of the registered families participate in a parish ministry. And when I refer to participating, I am not referring to a monetary contribution. They are actively involved in a parish ministry giving of their time and talent. Another common theme floating around the conference was related to the lack of invitation to participate. Many of our parishioners do not participate in a ministry simply because they have never been asked to do so. We have a very strong core group here at St. Agnes that I would refer to as the "Doers." These are the ones that seem to do everything from hospitality to bereavement to liturgy. Our goal is to expand this group to include everyone. I understand that this will take time and from what I was taught in Chicago, many years of time until it is truly effective. Since we have now developed a stewardship committee, the real job of recruiting begins. With that being said, if you have never been asked before to participate in a ministry, get ready because you will be in the near future. There was representation from many parishes that have created stewardship as a way of life and I am of the belief that this can be done here as well. We already have a great core group in place. All that remains to do is make our parish all inclusive.
